

ABOUT THE EDITORS AND AUTHORS

The Firm

Morrison & Foerster LLP offers clients comprehensive global legal services in business and litigation through more than 1,000 lawyers in 17 offices around the world. Its cross-disciplinary Privacy and Data Security Practice Group includes more than 60 attorneys internationally. Group members have a wide range of expertise in disciplines such as corporate practice, financial services, labor, technology, and litigation, providing clients a broad and global perspective on privacy matters.

The Editors

Miriam Wugmeister is a partner in the New York office of Morrison & Foerster and is head of the Firm's Privacy and Data Security Practice Group. She counsels clients regarding the collection, use, and transfer of personal information as organizations seek to comply with U.S. and non-U.S. data protection laws. She regularly advises global companies on multinational privacy compliance efforts. Ms. Wugmeister also has had significant experience in all areas of employment and labor law.

Christine Lyon is a partner in Morrison & Foerster's Palo Alto office, where her practice concentrates on employment and privacy law. She works extensively in the Firm's Privacy and Data Security Practice Group, with respect to both U.S. and international privacy issues. She has published articles and lectured on privacy, data security, and anti-spam legislation; assists clients in developing compliance strategies and internal governance policies; and advises clients in the areas of data protection and employee privacy.

Senior Editor and Contributing Author

Cynthia Rich is a senior international policy analyst in Morrison & Foerster's Washington, D.C., office, where she advises clients on privacy and transborder data transfers. Prior to joining the firm, Ms. Rich served as a senior international policy advisor at the U.S. Department of Commerce, where she worked to develop the groundbreaking safe harbor privacy arrangement between the U.S. and the European Union (EU).

Contributing Authors

Amina Adam is an associate in Morrison & Foerster's London office. She represents clients on privacy and employment matters in a wide range of industries on both contentious and non-contentious matters. She is a very experienced advocate, having been called to the Bar in 1996.

Teresa Basile is an associate in Morrison & Foerster's Brussels office, where she advises multinational companies on the different aspects of EU competition law and on data protection, privacy law, and e-commerce, at both EU and national levels.

Joyita Basu is an associate in Morrison & Foerster's Washington, D.C., office. She has experience advising on a wide range of issues related to privacy and data security under the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act, and state privacy and data security laws. She also handles a broad range of transactional and regulatory matters for financial institutions.

Ann Bevitt is a partner in the London office of Morrison & Foerster and head of the office's EU Privacy and Employment & Labor Groups. She has extensive expertise advising clients on international data protection and privacy issues. Her practice area covers all aspects of employment law and privacy-related matters, both contentious and noncontentious, with a focus on outsourcing (information technology, best practices, and human resources), international reorganizations, and mergers and acquisitions.

Cindy Chiu is an associate in the Hong Kong office of Morrison & Foerster. She has a broad-ranging practice and advises on general corporate matters. Ms. Chiu is admitted to practice in Hong Kong and is fluent in English, Cantonese, and Mandarin.

Suzanne Horne is an associate in Morrison & Foerster's London office, where she advises a wide range of clients on all aspects of employment law, data protection and privacy, and strategic human resources issues.

Michiko Ito Crampe is a partner in the New York office and is involved in international privacy issues, particularly with respect to Japan, including advising U.S. multinational corporations on how to comply with Japan's laws concerning the protection of personal information. She was the first lawyer admitted to practice law in both Japan and the United States when she was admitted to the State Bar of New York in 1976.

Charles Kennedy is Of Counsel in Morrison & Foerster's Washington, D.C., office and his practice focuses on privacy, data protection, e-commerce, and telecommunications. He is an adjunct professor of law at Catholic University of America, where he teaches cyberlaw and telecommunications regulation. He also has written four books on communications law and has testified before Congress as an expert on cyberlaw.

Gordon Milner is a partner in Morrison & Foerster's Hong Kong office, where he specializes in providing advice on information technology law, privacy and data security, and outsourcing. Mr. Milner has particular expertise in respect of Asian cross-border projects. Mr. Milner has been resident in Hong Kong since 2001, having previously practiced in London.

Karin Retzer is Of Counsel in Morrison & Foerster's Brussels office, where she focuses on the legal aspects of electronic e-commerce and data protection, technology licensing, and intellectual property law. She assists on worldwide privacy and data security projects and has advised clients on global data processing, data retention obligations, direct marketing, and employee monitoring.

Thomas Scanlon is Of Counsel in the Washington, D.C., office of Morrison & Foerster. He focuses on helping clients manage information about consumers and develop solutions to comply with complex privacy and data security laws. Mr. Scanlon's work in these emerging areas of the law, informed by his work for the Federal Reserve Board, enables him to provide practical advice to address novel regulatory issues.

Toshihiro So is Of Counsel in the Tokyo office of Morrison & Foerster. He represents both Japanese and non-Japanese clients on a wide range of general corporate, labor, privacy, civil litigation, real estate, and securities-related matters. From 1990 to 1998, Mr. So was employed by Fuji Electric Co., Ltd., in the Legal Department. He graduated from the Legal Training and Research Institute of the Supreme Court of Japan and was admitted to practice in Japan in 2000.

Nathan Taylor is an associate in Morrison & Foerster's Washington, D.C., office. His practice focuses on consumer financial services and the regulation of financial institutions, in particular in relation to privacy and data security issues, including compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act privacy and security requirements, and state security breach notification and security freeze statutes.

Timothy Verrall is Of Counsel with Morrison & Foerster's Northern Virginia office, where he advises a broad range of clients on the tax, labor, and securities aspects of employee benefit programs. He also has substantial experience dealing with issues arising under the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA) and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), including the HIPAA privacy, security, and transaction standards rules.

Marian Waldmann is an associate in Morrison & Foerster's New York office. Her practice focuses on the areas of privacy and data security and labor and employment. She received her J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 2004, where she was a senior editor of the Journal of International Economic Law.

Other Contributors

Olivier Angotti is an associate in the firm of JeantetAssociés in Paris. On a regular basis, he advises international clients on data protection issues, with a focus on their criminal law aspects, from a French employment law perspective. Mr. Angotti also represents both French and foreign firms in litigation arising from noncompliance with employees' and employee representatives' privacy rights and data protection regulations.

Isabelle Pontal is a senior associate in the firm of JeantetAssociés in Paris. With more than 15 years of practice in employment law, she has extensive expertise in advising clients on issues arising from company restructurings, with a focus on collective redundancy exercises, compliance issues, and employees' data protection. Mrs. Pontal assists both French and foreign firms with due diligence exercises and subsequent negotiation over employment-related issues in the merger and acquisition context.

Dr. Jyn Schultze-Melling LL.M. is a senior privacy professional in the Munich office of Noerr Stiefenhofer Lutz, one of Germany's biggest independent law firms, which has 13 offices in Germany and Central and Eastern Europe. Dr. Schultze-Melling's practice focuses on setting up global privacy compliance schemes, preparing cross-border data transfers, and developing sound strategies in regard to corporate information security management.

Acknowledgements

The Firm greatly acknowledges the contributions of the following individuals who contributed in a variety of ways to the success of this book:

Oliver Bisazza
Sara Brin
Mary Jo Ellingson
Ivan J. Flores
Kimberly Harbin
Saori Horikawa
Leonard Lipsztein
Guy McPherson
Fraser Mendel
Katharine Pauley
Janelle Sahouria
Charles Shaw

